Wood Working

Art is about thinking outside the box. It is about looking at what is and discovering how to configure and shape existing elements in new ways. My work in wood reflects a fluid union of form and function that adds visual interest to home or office environments.

Jan Pomeroy

Painting

When an artist creates something, part of their spirit is in that piece. My hope is that my art will have the spirit to bring peace and beauty to the observers of my work. Rich textures, found objects, rich colors and some mystery are in those pieces I create. Come and see!

Lisa Watts
Collage/Mixed Media

It is a crucial component of my artwork to play Devils Advocate, encouraging you to scrutinize the complex intricacies of the sexual and class distinctions of women in our society. James Baldwin sums it up brilliantly... "Not everything that is faced can be changed but nothing can be changed until it is faced."

Angella Emmett
Mixed Media Installation

Entitled "Roulette" this work is comprised of multiple concepts, theories and propositions. All of which represent my programmatic approach to articulating human patterns as I imagine and experience them. Just like in Roulette, the game of chance where players have a variety of betting options, this work has a variety of meanings.

Jewelry

When I'm creating jewelry my heart is open and my spirit is light - this is healing for me, and allows me to create a piece that makes the person wearing it feel beautiful, loved, treasured, and strong.

Painting

Dogs fascinate me, and I love nothing more than capturing their bright personalities in colorful chalk pastels. Color fascinates me as well and abounds in my alcohol ink and acrylic abstracts.

Ken Stedman
Fabric Arts

I love everything about weaving. I love the different yarns, from the super soft baby alpaca to sturdy merino wool to silky threads. I love the ranges of colors, both natural and dyed, and the wide variety of textures. I love the clatter of the loom as a piece is being brought to life. Finishing a hand-woven piece is a thrill and I love when someone wants to make one of my pieces their own!

Lisa Orr
Ceramics

Lisa Orr's artworks for the table often refer to traditional porcelain or restaurant whitewares, but with softer forms inspired by the playful and abundant qualities of Mexican earthenware. Her artwork is best presented with a freshly prepared meal.

Jo Lagattuta
Printmaking and Mixed Media

"When you are in your creation and you are doing what you love to do, you become what you really are again. You are not thinking in that moment; you are expressing." One could say I make art to please the eye and touch the soul.

Sebastian Hubele
Jewelry

When I fabricate a piece of jewelry, I never know how far it might travel or whose attention it might captivate. Each new project might stay on the known trail or wander off unexpectedly into a new dimension altogether. That's what brings me back to my jeweler's bench everyday.

Jacob Colburn
Sculpture

I am a second generation artist that grew up to have a love and fascination for copper. The colors that can be pulled from it are quiet amazing. I am very interested in working math and geometric shapes into my work. With acid, inks and fire I change the chemical makeup of copper to make works of art.

Valentina Dorsa

Painting

In my recent work, I am stripping everything down to the bare essentials, embracing the simplicity of line and form within the organic and fractal shapes of nature. With my love of iconic southwest imagery as the springboard, I add just a hint of glamour and decadence in the timeless form of gold leaf.
